John Engelman: Void of leadership was stated as a concern in last year's report and came to fruition with the loss of both the Chair and Chair elect. You did a marvelous job of overcoming this loss. Your person to person outreach was an excellent choice to get volunteers. Well done as I see many of the committees filled with leadership. Attempting to engage your early-career chemists might bring some additional help.

I see that only 3 events were listed. This is a big decrease from the previous year but understandable if it is true. The events were however outreach, Good going! I also found most of your online accounts were dated again, this may be because of your early year experiences. The real upside was your newsletter "The Catalyst".

You only listed 2 executive meetings which were spotlighted in a report. Did you actually hold more via conference call/Zoom/GoToMeeting?

Again I want to say LSAC has created The Digital Resource Guide, which is available to help your Section (1) engage members through social media, (2) find platforms to run elections, and (3) communicate remotely. Wishing you a better year in 2020 tempered by the Coronavirus pandemic
